

Unknown Ladies' Group

The Chaddesden Historical Group collection includes many undated photographs, some with minimal captions, but it is usually possible to work out what is depicted. There are few that are as uninformative as this photograph of ladies at Chaddesden Lane End which has no caption at all.

It appears to be the start of an outing as there is a coach behind the group and the driver can be seen wearing his PSV driver's licence badge. The year is 1962 at the latest as the overhead line for the Spondon trolleybus route can be seen in the background. Fascinating pre-war road sign from the days before Chaddesden had traffic lights!

You may recognise your grandmother in the group, but do you know what clubs she was a member of? The only hope we have is that every group member was given a copy and that someone may have the same photo with identification written on the back.
